August Debouzy, and in particular its German Desk, advised Rohde & Schwarz, a German technology group, in connection with the sale of its French subsidiary Rohde & Schwarz Cybersecurity, formerly known as DenyAll, to Total Specific Solutions B.V., a leading Dutch provider of vertical market software solutions.

Established in 2001, with headquarters in Meudon, France, and a research facility in Montpellier, Rohde & Schwarz Cybersecurity provides web application and API protection (WAAP) solutions to over 600 enterprise-level and public customers in 35 countries. Its R&S®Web Application Firewall (a leader in France with c. 25% market share) and further WAAP solutions secure applications and APIs against application-layer attacks. The company's portfolio of solutions can be deployed on premise, in the cloud, or both, and is also offered as a managed service. The R&S®Trusted Application Factory ensures cloud-native application protection, integrating security within the code of software, a solution adjusted to the needs of DevSecOps teams.

TSS is a Netherlands-based vertical market software group with over 110 independently managed software business units and 3,900 employees in Europe. TSS is part of the ecosystem of Constellation Software Inc. (CSI), a Toronto, Canada-headquartered global provider of vertical market software solutions.

This is the 14th company to join TSS in the French-speaking market and the first of the group dedicated to cyber security.
