CIRCULAR ECONOMY: THE REGULATION ON END-OF-LIFE VEHICLES HAS BEEN POSTPONED TO THE NEXT LEGISLATIVE SESSION

European Law | 22/11/23 |

The regulation on end-of-life vehicles, presented by the European Commission on July 13, 2023, aims to ensure that certain materials (such as plastics) are reused and recycled, that old cars are safely taken out of the market, and that countries effectively enforce the rules.

This text is part of the European Commission's circular economy strategy.

According to MEP Jens Gieseke (EPP), the lead negotiator for the Parliament on this issue, the Commission's proposal was made too late, and the text will not be processed before the upcoming European elections in June 2024. The Commission had hoped that this text could be concluded before the elections, but it appears that it won't be the case.
