AUGUST DEBOUZY ADVISED KLEEP, A COMPANY OFFERING AN AI-BASED SIZING SOLUTION, IN CONNECTION WITH ITS FUNDRAISING

M&A | 28/12/23 | Julien Wagmann François Richard Juliette Vachet

PROPRIÉTÉ INTELLECTUELLE

August Debouzy advised Kleep, a French start-up founded by Federico Fortis and Théophile Bousquet, two engineers specialised in AI, with a particular focus on image analysis, on its fundraising.

Kleep has developed a sizing solution powered by artificial intelligence that uses two photos to find the ideal size for the customer in order to help fashion brands effectively reduce package returns.

August Debouzy assisted Kleep with a team comprising Julien Wagmann (partner), François Richard (associate) and Juliette Vachet (associate).
