August Debouzy advised Verdosso, an independent French family investment firm focused on majority investments in transformation situations, in connection with the signing of an exclusivity agreement with Orange regarding the contemplated acquisition of Globecast.

Globecast, Orange's media services subsidiary, supports thousands of clients — including broadcasters, content owners and platform operators — in the global delivery and distribution of audiovisual content. The company operates a worldwide network of teleports and 24/7 operations centers, supported by a hybrid infrastructure combining satellite, fiber and IP-based solutions.

This contemplated acquisition aligns with Verdosso's strategy as a well-established carve-out specialist, having completed more than 35 acquisitions since its founding in 1997, including transactions involving major groups such as Pernod Ricard, Schneider Electric, Lafarge and ENGIE. The transaction is expected to provide Globecast with a long-term shareholder capable of supporting the rollout of next-generation services and strengthening its position in a rapidly evolving market.

The transaction remains subject to the information and consultation process with Orange's employee representative bodies and is expected to close by the end of 2026.
