August & Debozy, a French business law firm, has created Start you up, an exclusive legal support service aimed at helping companies which are starting out. The firm is therefore showing its commitment towards young entrepreneurs by giving the companies of tomorrow a boost.

Start you up offers global legal support in order to help new companies meet challenges related to the launch and development of their activity.

10 startups shall be selected based on their project (development prospects and innovation) and have access for one year to the firm's entire expertise for €200 per month).

Start you up is directed at young entrepreneurs of under the age of 40 whose company has been registered in France for less than 18 months and with a majority-owned share capital. Start you up allows such young entrepreneurs, who, due to a lack of means, deal with legal aspects at a minimum, to have access to high-ranking law specialists to help them start and develop their project.

Why Start you up?

Returning to one's roots...: giving those, who like Gilles August and Olivier Debozy in 1995, have had the courage and ambition to launch a project with will and ambition as their only resource.

... And betting on the future: promoting French entrepreneurship by accompanying and helping the economic players of tomorrow.

Capitalizing on a dynamic: working alongside young entrepreneurs requires the law to be thought over and apprehended daily, it is a new energy.

A real motivation for the teams: conceiving and participating in a new project.
